'Bachelor' Ben Flajnik's Finale Scores Lowest Ratings in Series History

The Bachelor ended this past Monday and people didn't care about Ben Flajnik's final choice. In fact, the episode had the lowest ratings in Bachelor history. It really seems that fans and viewers simply didn't care for Ben's arrogant attitude, Lindzi's innocent personality when she wouldn't get picked in the end, and Courtney's continuous manipulative behavior. According to Wetpaint Entertainment, Ben's finale had about a 36% drop from the previous season where he was left heartbroken. Could it be due to all of the rumors about Ben picking Courtney?

Not surprisingly, After the Final Rose had an increase in viewers since people were more interested in how the couple is doing now compared to how they got engaged. And the disinterest in Ben and Courtney could have something to do with the fact that they didn't get the full PEOPLE magazine cover that all other contestants have in the past. This is interesting because Ben Flajnik and Courtney's story is one of the most dramatic in history, yet all they got was a little corner feature with the headline, "Can They Trust Each Other?"

Perhaps people are just tired of hearing about Ben and Courtney. It is not surprising that this is the lowest rated episode in Bachelor history when it comes to finales, because everyone knew that Ben would pick Courtney in Switzerland.
